The National Directory for Catechesis says that a professionally trained catechetical leader is the single most critical factor in an effective program of catechesis. (No. 54.5)

IFG: NCEA Adult Faith Formation Survey

This tool is a self-assessment survey designed to assist individual adults in evaluating their personal level of religious knowledge and spirituality. It is centered on the six dimensions outlined in the U.S. Bishops' document, Our Hearts Were Burning Within Us: A Pastoral Plan for Adult Formation in the United States:

- knowledge of the faith
- liturgical life
- moral formation
- prayer
- communal life
- missionary spirit

Score Reports

The score reports provide a summary of a person's cognitive understanding of the six dimensions of adult faith in Our Hearts Were Burning Within Us as well as attitudes in these same areas. The reports also provide references to the Catechism of the Catholic Church and the Compendium of the Catechism of the Catholic Church to encourage further study and growth.

Participants will receive an individualized and confidential score report. The group coordinator (if applicable) will receive a group score report. All reports are sent electronically via email.

Online Option

The IFG: Adult Survey may be taken online or with paper and pencil. Both options can be used with a group or by an individual. Reports are emailed within 48 hours of completion of the survey online.

Tools to Support Effective Catechesis for a Lifetime of Learning

NCEA Adult Faith Formation Survey

ASSESSMENT TOOLS FOR STUDENT PROGRAMS AND ADULTS

NCEA Information for Growth (IFG) assessment tools are designed to reflect a unified vision of lifelong catechesis. Since the 1970's NCEA has provided two assessment tools:

- NCEA IFG: ACRE edition, revised in 2013, has been helping educators in Catholic schools and parishes assess how well their programs of religious education are doing in forming committed Christian disciples.
- IFG: NCEA Adult Faith Formation Survey, has been helpful in understanding and identifying the on-going formation needs of adults.

NCEA IFG: ACRE edition

The Assessment of Children/ Youth Religious Education, commonly referred to as ACRE, is an integrated assessment tool providing faith knowledge questions (cognitive domain) and questions related to religious beliefs, attitudes, practices and perceptions (affective domain).

A multilevel, developmental and age appropriate tool, it is used in grades 5 (Level 1), grades 8 or 9 (Level 2), and grades 11-12 (Level 3).

NCEA IFG: ACRE edition

This tool helps educators know where the strengths and weaknesses are in their catechetical programs. Levels 2 and 3 are aligned to the U. S. bishops' framework for high schools. All levels are aligned to the six tasks of catechesis outlined in the General Directory for Catechesis:

- knowledge of the faith
- prayer
- liturgical life
- communal life
- moral formation
- missionary spirit

Each of the categories is assessed, helping educators know what areas students know well and what areas need extra attention. Making decisions with this knowledge leads to wise program development.

Online Option

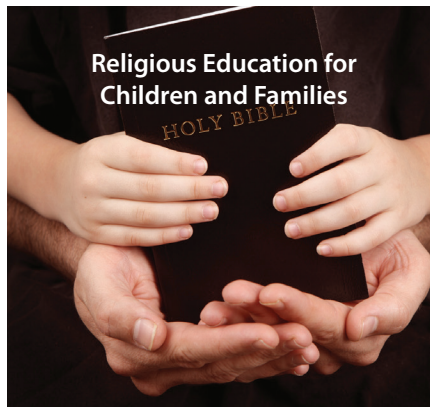

The IFG:ACRE edition student questionnaire may be completed online or with paper and pencil. The online option does not require a printed answer sheet or booklet.

Score Reports

The local parish or Catholic school will receive a group score report for each level used. Diocesan leaders may also request a report of all participating schools and parishes in the (arch) diocese. Each score report will include:

- An item-by-item breakdown of the group responses
- Standards-based reports with national performance "cut scores"
- A program assessment summary

All reports are sent electronically via email, unless a user chooses to have the group report printed and mailed (at an additional cost).

Catechesis is a remarkable moment in the whole process of evangelization.
